

To generate opportunities for debate, discussion and reflection in regards to the impact and development of sports in Latin American countries.

Encourage the consolidation of networks of researchers about social and cultural studies of sport, with the purpose of consolidating the academic sport community in the region.

Strengthen the bonds of cooperation amongst academics and ALESDE member researchers, with the associations 'researchers of studies about sport from other world regions, with a view to greater visibility of Latin America in the international context.